What information we collect

We may collect and hold information including:

- your name;
- address;
- email address;
- telephone number;
- age eligibility confirmation;
- current or previous fisheries or angling clubs you tell us about;
- whether you have previously been a member of Plan B Angling CIC;
- membership application information;
- membership status and history;
- payment and invoicing information;
- records of correspondence with us;
- records relating to membership administration, disciplinary matters, appeals, resignations or exclusions;
- acknowledgement of the current lake rules and privacy notice.

We only collect information that is reasonably necessary for the purposes described in this notice.

Why we use your information

We use personal information to:

- receive and assess membership applications;
- contact applicants about their application;
- administer waiting lists and membership places;
- manage active memberships;
- issue membership information and site-access information;
- manage membership fees and payments;
- maintain membership and communication records;
- administer the Plan B Angling CIC lake rules;
- manage complaints, disciplinary matters, suspensions, appeals and exclusions;
- identify former members whose previous conduct is relevant to a future application;
- protect members, visitors, livestock, wildlife, property and the safe operation of the fishery;
- meet legal, regulatory, insurance and operational obligations;
- maintain appropriate records for the management of the CIC.

Our lawful basis for using your information

We rely on different lawful bases depending on the purpose for which information is used.

Contract — where processing is necessary to take steps at your request before entering into membership arrangements, or to administer your membership.

Legitimate interests — where processing is necessary for the reasonable administration, security and operation of Plan B Angling CIC, provided those interests are not overridden by your rights and interests.

Our legitimate interests include maintaining accurate membership records, managing access to the fishery, enforcing membership rules, protecting members and other persons, safeguarding livestock, wildlife and property, and preventing persons previously permanently excluded for serious conduct from rejoining or reapplying.

Legal obligation — where we need to process information to comply with a legal requirement.

The ICO expects organisations relying on legitimate interests to identify the interest, show the processing is necessary, and balance it against the individual's rights. It also recommends documenting this assessment. ICO

Who we may share your information with

Where necessary, information may be shared with organisations that provide services to Plan B Angling CIC, including:

- IT, email, document-storage and administration service providers;
- accounting, banking and payment service providers;
- insurers and professional advisers;
- regulatory bodies, law-enforcement agencies or other authorities where disclosure is legally required or necessary.

We do not sell applicants' or members' personal information.

How long we keep your information

We retain personal information only for as long as it is reasonably necessary for the purpose for which it was collected and to meet legal, financial, insurance, operational and legitimate record-keeping requirements.

Different categories of information may therefore be retained for different periods.

Where a former member has been permanently excluded or expelled because their conduct was considered to present an ongoing risk to other members, visitors, the fishery, livestock, wildlife, property or the safe operation of Plan B Angling CIC, we may retain a limited exclusion record for as long as it remains necessary to prevent that person from rejoining or reapplying.

Such records will be limited to information reasonably necessary to identify the individual, record the fact and reason for exclusion, and support future membership decisions.

Retention arrangements will be reviewed periodically, and information that is no longer required will be deleted or anonymised where appropriate.

The ICO requires retention periods to be justifiable and says personal data should not be kept longer than necessary for the purpose. ICO

How we protect your information

We take reasonable organisational and technical measures to protect personal information against unauthorised access, alteration, loss or disclosure.

Access to membership information is limited to people who require it for the administration and operation of Plan B Angling CIC.

Depending on the circumstances, you may have rights including:

- access to personal information we hold about you;
- correction of inaccurate or incomplete information;
- deletion of your personal information in certain circumstances;
- restriction of processing;
- objection to certain processing;
- data portability where applicable.

Not every right applies in every situation.

To exercise your rights, contact info@planbangling.net.

The current version will be made available to applicants and members.
